Core Connections

To Whom It May Concern,

I am pleased to recommend Justin W. Lee of J. W. Lee Consulting for his work supporting Core Connections Wellness. Justin provided valuable guidance on strengthening our organizational operations, pursuing business certifications, and navigating state bid solicitations.

As a growing organization, we needed direction on how to translate our services into government contracting opportunities. Justin helped clarify the steps involved, identify priorities, and develop a more informed approach to pursuing those opportunities. His guidance helped us connect our day-to-day operations with our broader business development goals.

We valued his ability to make a complex process more understandable and actionable. His consultation gave us clearer direction as we worked to strengthen our business foundation and position Core Connections Wellness for growth.

I recommend Justin to business owners seeking practical guidance on organizational readiness and government contracting.

Sincerely,
Ross Robinson
